

Press Release . 30th October 2016

Unitel T+ is ManWinWin's newest client

Cape Verdian mobile operator Unitel T+ chose ManWinWin Software to centralize its maintenance management on a national level. The company is part of Unitel International, one of the biggest telecommunications group in Africa.

Unitel's priority was to implement a new software to support all maintenance management needs amongst its technical sites, stores, kiosks, warehouses and fleet.

The first step taken was establishing the program's configuration, registering all data and ensuring Unitel's team was properly trained and ready to complete all necessary tasks: registering equipment, defining preventive maintenance plans, maintenance history, resources management, installing a single platform for maintenance requests, automatic alerts and reporting and analysis features. The implementation was held in the city of Praia, although the software access will also be extended to the remaining islands.

Unitel T+ is specially focused in innovation, competitiveness and providing accessible telecommunication services to everyone. It is the most recent player in the Cape Verdian market, as it operates since 2012 after T+ was bought by Unitel International, a group with strong presence in Angola and Sao Tome as well.

This is an important milestone to ManWinWin to reinforce its presence in Cape Verde and enlarge a solid portfolio that already includes clients such as Electra, Enacol, Enapor, Moave e Transcor.
